Denis Talbot

Campaign Spokesman

With more than 23 years' experience as a communicator, journalist and moderator, since November 1998, Denis Talbot has been at the helm of Monsieur Net, a live television program on Musique Plus from Monday to Thursday at 7:30 p.m. The show is an information source for computer enthusiasts in Quebec. He passionately presents the latest products that will thrill computer lovers, such as gadgets and especially games! Mr. Talbot has critiqued over 400 games on his program.

Denis Talbot has also created an extremely popular website, denistalbot.com, which hosts a community of over 8,000 members as well as a forum. Since November 28, 2005, he has been broadcasting a podcast every Friday called Radio Talbot. This program deals with the same topics as his television show and is listened to or downloaded as a podcast by more than 21,000 listeners around the world.

Denis Talbot is also a much sought-after speaker and is the creator of "Vigilance on the net" lectures, in collaboration with Videotron. Over the past two years, these lectures have been presented in schools, businesses and organizations throughout Quebec. They have also won several awards. A renowned technology journalist, he also writes a weekly column in Le Journal Le Métro.

Denis Talbot is proud to be this year's spokesperson for the 3rd edition of the information security and protection of personal information campaign called "Protect Your Identity Online." "As a computer and video game enthusiast, I have always been concerned about information security and good practices to adopt when using the Internet," he says.

In February 2009, Denis Talbot and his wife became proud parents, adopting a toddler born in Kazakhstan.
